

REACHING BASIS OF CIVIC UNION

Successful Meeting of the Joint Committees Held Last Night.

The system to which Strathcona will in event of amalgamation with Edmonton, to guarantee a pro rata representation in the common council of Greater Edmonton was the subject of a long and spirited debate last night when the committees of the respective municipalities met around the council table in Strathcona, to their task of reaching from the rough path of union the threatening space. To lead the conference out of the irrelevant discussion of the ward system, and of all sorts of possible combinations (Mr. H. H. Hargrave, chairman of the Strathcona committee) a motion was made which embodied the principle for which the Strathcona representation was holding out of some form of guaranteed representation on the council.

Mr. Hargrave's motion read as follows: That should the union of the amalgamated city be by general vote of the whole city but that at the first election the proper number of proportion of these candidates having both their residence and property qualifications on the south side of the river, be declared invalid, the remainder of the council being composed of a sufficient number of the remaining candidates irrespective of where they have their property qualifications to fill the total number required and that at subsequent elections the same principle be adopted so that there shall always be the proper number of the council who have their residence and property qualifications on the south side of the river.

Three members for Strathcona. The motion drew out of the discussion that arose when Mr. Hargrave's motion was made, the fact that the Strathcona committee had been informed that the union of the two municipalities would be by general vote of the whole city, but that at the first election the proper number of proportion of these candidates having both their residence and property qualifications on the south side of the river, be declared invalid, the remainder of the council being composed of a sufficient number of the remaining candidates irrespective of where they have their property qualifications to fill the total number required and that at subsequent elections the same principle be adopted so that there shall always be the proper number of the council who have their residence and property qualifications on the south side of the river.

Appealed to Mr. Hargrave.

Appeal was made at this point to Mr. Hargrave as chairman of the committee to be decided by the committee or whether it was not rather to be settled in drawing up the new city charter.

"On the other hand," replied Mr. Hargrave, "it is a matter of the highest importance from a technical point of view, the motion deciding whether you are to have a ward system or just what means of representation you wish."

Major J. G. Macdonald, who presided the five-year limit and Mr. Hargrave have the meeting the benefit of the motion he had been drawing up. When submitted it was unanimously passed.

The other matters passed upon and now embodied in the report to be submitted to the council of both cities. The two bridges over the Saskatchewan and the immediate street railway extensions for Strathcona. The street railway extensions decided on by the Strathcona committee at their last session comprising four lines which total nine miles of track, to be all completed in two years, line from West Hill Creek from Fifth avenue to the eastern boundary of the city and north to Sixth avenue north, a line running south from Whyte avenue along Sixth street and back to Whyte avenue, a line running south to Sixth street west to the southern boundary of the city, a line from Whyte avenue along Sixth street west to the University extension.

Difference of opinion. Of the railway extension question great difference of opinion was evident. Mr. Macdonald measured on the map and found the line to be nine miles and calculated that nine miles would be a safe estimate. "Even if you could not get the line, you would be in a position to warrant the extension."

Mr. Hargrave pointed out that the Strathcona committee did not intend to justify their recommendation on the basis of present or even future population. "The fact is," said Mr. Hargrave, "that we are not in a position to warrant the extension."

Strathcona power house to pay 4-1-2 per cent.

on $100,000, the probable cost of construction. Coal delivered at the power house costs as just $8.80 ton more than your dues.

Major Armstrong felt in with the ideas of Dr. Torg and made a motion that a bid for the bridge connecting Edmonton and Strathcona in the vicinity of the Strathcona power house should be included in the agreement submitted to the representatives of both cities as part of the basis of amalgamation.

The West End bridge. The West End bridge in the neighborhood of White Mill Creek was not so easily disposed of. The south bank of the river is at this point outside of Strathcona city limits while to Edmonton the advantage would be rather visionary. Strathcona members pointed out that it compared with the West End bridge which was being undertaken by Edmonton and a share in which obligation Strathcona would have also to assume with any securing advantage. As this question promised the first serious deadlock of the evening Mr. Douglas moved that the matter be referred back to the Strathcona committee to report on at the next meeting.

Calms of School Districts. Before was made by talking some steps looking to the union of the two municipalities. Mr. Douglas drew attention to the fact that if this was left until after amalgamation, the two cities could not have a uniform school system. It was decided to include this in the general scheme of union and Mr. H. Clark was requested to hold a meeting of the two school boards to come to some agreement regarding the formation of a single district.

Adjustment was made at 10:15 and the two school boards were then the joint committee will meet in the morning at 10:30.

There were present from Strathcona: J. G. Macdonald, R. A. Hargrave, A. J. C. Torg, R. H. Douglas, Mr. W. E. Hargrave, John Walker, R. H. Christie, Dr. H. M. Torg and Mayor Armstrong.

Edmonton: A. C. Fraser (chairman), Mr. J. H. Hargrave, Mr. J. E. Landt, Mr. W. H. Clark, O. M. Hargrave, Mr. Macdonald and Mayor Armstrong.

DROP A CHARGE AGAINST BOULLON

Mayor Unaware of Statement in Minutes Which He Signed.

Totally displaced by incontrovertible evidence, one of the charges against Commissioner Boulton and Burchard was withdrawn by the solicitor for the preceding afternoon at the session of the committee of investigation yesterday afternoon. The charge is that which is known as (C) 2, under the general head of "misleading statements and misrepresentations to the council," and declares that a report submitted by Representative Boulton was never submitted to the attention of the mayor, who is one of the commissioners, and was not submitted as any commissioner's motion.

Mayor Armstrong was the first witness to take the stand in the afternoon and his statement was directed to the minutes of the meeting of commissioners at which action was taken upon this report. His own signature upon this report, however, was appended.

"I suppose there is no doubt that you signed the minutes, Mr. Mayor," asked Mr. Burchard.

"I signed them without looking over them," was the mayor's response.

"And you complain of the commissioners because they did not go over them with you?" "You say statements referred to in the minutes were not checked to the minutes?"

"It is intended to show approval," said the witness.

"I think I may say that one of the commissioners charged (a) by-law be considered withdrawn," remarked Mr. McCaul.

Lively Encounter.
During the afternoon there were several lively encounters between the council, and once it seemed for a moment likely that the commissioners might have to adjourn to the civic center to permit a settlement of the dispute over the alleged misstatements.

Speculation was rife for a moment as to the outcome of such an encounter. Mr. McCaul having the advantage of weight, Mr. Boulton being the better fighter, the expectation of the sports was, however, disappointed.

The dispute arose over the fact that Mr. Boulton had signed a motion which he signed without looking over it, and in a court of law, he has the right to put to rest the question of the misstatements. The question of the misstatements was not to be decided by the council, but by the courts.

Each was asked to turn "Give you not determined that the commissioners must be dismissed whether or not the charges are proven?"

"Were not the two new commissioners appointed for the purpose of making it impossible for Commissioner Boulton and Burchard to act in behalf of the city?"

"Was not an agreement made with them that their appointment should be temporary, terminating with the dismissal of the present commissioners and the appointment of their successors?"

Witnesses Refused to Answer.
To each of these questions the witnesses refused to answer, and were maintained in their refusal by the chair.

To Mr. Boulton, Mr. McCaul said that he was a member of the council of the city of Edmonton, and that he was a member of the council of the city of Edmonton.

Mr. Boulton, Mr. Burchard, and Mr. McCaul, all of whom were present, were asked to answer the questions, to all of which answers were refused.

"I understand that a report was made by an engineer employed by the council recommending the purchase of machinery for which you are accountable," said Mr. Boulton.

When Mr. Boulton asked that the witness be directed to answer this and other questions he was told by Mr. McCaul that his questions were "irrelevant and immaterial" and were not to be answered.

"If I do not know whether I am to understand that my learned friend intended to take his clients counsel upon himself," said Mr. Boulton, with an air of superiority.

Mr. Boulton, Mr. Burchard, and Mr. McCaul, all of whom were present, were asked to answer the questions, to all of which answers were refused.

Pumps From All Gravelly Farms.
Questioned concerning the pumps ordered from his company for use in connection with the filtration plant, for the delayed installation of which the commissioners are held responsible, Mr. Grindley stated that he received the contract in February of this year. The contract called for shipment within six weeks. The pumps arrived on Saturday last, about thirteen weeks from the date when the order was placed. He gave bond for the performance of the contract. The liability of his company under this bond, he said, had not been discussed.

"I suppose it will be discussed by the town commissioners," remarked Mr. Boulton.

A. C. Lacey, ex-chief of the police department, was called to the stand regarding the charge against Commissioner Boulton of arbitrary action in dealing with officials. Under examination by Mr. McCaul, Mr. Lacey stated that the inquiry was made for his resignation was a feeling of uneasiness engendered by the action of the commissioners.

Mr. Lacey, however, did not address to the commissioners by Mr. Boulton, but to the committee of the council of the department.

Ex-Chief Lacey's Letter.
Mr. Lacey, however, did not address to the commissioners by Mr. Boulton, but to the committee of the council of the department.

"I don't think it really is addressed to the commissioners by Mr. Boulton, but to the committee of the council of the department," said Mr. Lacey.

"You left the city's service to take the stand," said Mr. Boulton.

"That is a question," said Mr. Lacey.

"You received a little more money—Three dollars per month."

"Yes. I do not have to put in much long hours."

"It is not true that in June, 1910, in Mr. Boulton's office you said, speaking of Mr. Boulton, that you were familiar with French Canadian and had no fear of them."

"I don't know," said Mr. Lacey, "I saw such things," said Mr. Lacey, "I saw such things," said Mr. Lacey.

Mr. Lacey stated that Mr. Boulton was a very close commissioner to whom he objected, and the expression in his mind was that he was a close commissioner to whom he objected.

Mr. Boulton, however, did not address to the commissioners by Mr. Boulton, but to the committee of the council of the department.

made a brief opening speech, explaining the purpose of the meeting and the needs of a railway to the north. He then called upon Mr. W. H. Malkin to address the gathering.

Mr. Malkin voiced a long-standing grievance when he stated that the citizens wanted the long haul and that they therefore did not wish the city of Vancouver to build up a trade in the province.

Mr. Malkin pointed out that the city of Vancouver should have a hand in the building of the line to the north country, and that the line should be built at once.

Mr. D. O. Williams pointed out the economic possibilities of the new line and thought it was important that the city of Vancouver should have a hand in the building of the line to the north country.

Minneapolis Journal Answers Arguments Against Reciprocity.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 25.—The following published today in an editorial by the Minneapolis Journal on the reciprocity situation.

In the arguments that have been used to oppose the farmers' alliance Canadian reciprocity, much has been made of the disparity between the price of wheat in Winnipeg and in Minneapolis and Duluth. It had been pointed out that the primary markets in this state have been paying the farmers on the average ten cents more for their wheat than Winnipeg was paying the Canadian farmers.

This would instantly disappear with the adoption of reciprocity, and that the Minnesota price level would sink to that of Manitoba. The fact that wheat prices in the latter state are higher has been ascribed to the reciprocity agreement and it has been pointed out that the reciprocity agreement is a self-interesting one.

Prof. Jones of the university of North Dakota, in his address before the state farmers' committee, gave a perfectly rational explanation of the difference in prices level between Winnipeg and Duluth.

These markets would be on a par, because the latter is a shipping point for export wheat, the Winnipeg quotations are for wheat ready to load at Port Arthur.

The Minneapolis market is often forced to a higher point because of the strong local milling demand, and it is not reciprocally willing to pay a premium on wheat in order to bring their contracts for flour.

Western Canada. Edmonton has had the pleasure of the company of at least two teams who make quite a specialty of arguing it out with the ninnies on every possible occasion. Saskatoon's, Infielders were all pretty in hands at it and across law ran in a pretty fair second. Calgary, without Carney, shows a big improvement this year and Brandon and Winnipeg are yet open for inspection.

A. G. McKay For OTTAWA CABINET

This is a Rumor That is Now Going the Rounds of Toronto and the Capital—Has Had Frequent Consultations With Premier.

Toronto, May 25.—A question that is being discussed in political circles here just now is the probable elevation of Hon. A. G. McKay, leader of the Ontario opposition, to a position in the Ottawa cabinet. It is pointed out that the honorable gentleman has been in Ottawa several times lately and has held long conferences with Mr. Wilfrid and his ministers. Before he started on his tour of the province after the close of the provincial legislature he consulted the Federal leaders, and his tour was a defence of respect. Not a provincial issue was touched upon. Around Ottawa the rumor that McKay is the next man from Ontario for the Federal cabinet seems abroad.
